A day to find out more about fresh expressions of church at first hand, and to learn how some rural churches have developed new ways of being church in the countryside. The day will include an overview of developing fresh expressions alongside traditional styles of worship and of church; stories about fresh expression initiatives locally; workshops in particular areas of interest; sharing ideas and advice; worship, prayer and reflection.

Keynote speakers are:

Pete Atkins, a member of the national fresh expressions team and leader of a rural cell church in Lincolnshire.

Pam Macnaughton, is an Anglican priest working in Bishopthorpe, in York. She has helped to lead a fresh expression of church and has wide experience of local church life in different parts of the country.
