

Why do some Christian organisations lose their edge?
Does receiving secular funding always dilute spiritual purposes?
Are there churches that have kept the flame burning?

“We don’t do God...”

How to avoid losing faith in your community project

This interactive and fun day will help you reconnect your work to your deepest convictions and begin to integrate a down-to-earth theology into your frontline work

The day will include:

- ✓ Practical Ideas to help you and your team think theologically about your community work
- ✓ Examples of projects that have not lost an active Christian faith
- ✓ Seeing success through Christ’s eyes, rather than funders’ monitoring forms
- ✓ The chance to be stimulated by new ideas and learn from your peers

Facilitators:

The Community Mission Team work with churches and Christian Projects wrestling with these issues. They bring experience and reflection sharpened by engagement and lively debate.
